CEPP Motion to revise the Cultucentered Inquiry Requirement, Spring 2012

Motion

CEPP moves to expand the types of courses offered in the Goldentered Inquiry requirement by replacing the existing two categories of courses (OnleasternÓ and Ocultural DiversityÓ) with one new category: Oconsider Difference. O This new category: Owill apply beginning with the class of 2017. The Cultucentered Inquiry Requirement will continue to include one course in Foreign Language class years prior to 2017 can fulfill the CCI requirement with one Foreign Language course and one course twinieets NW, CD, or DF.

Rationale

The Goals for Student Learning and Developmentorsed by the faculty in 2009all for students to Ounderstand social and cultural diversity in national and global contexts, O to Ointeract effectively and collaborative high individuals and across social identities, O and to Ointerrogate one Os own values in relation to those of others, across social and cultural differences. OT and Literatures plus one course designated by the Curric@bmmittee as satisfying the ConsideringDifference (DF) requirement.

To support the pursuit of an understanding of social and raudtifference a DF coursevill require that students terrogate how the values of one or more groups may be situated to those of other groups cross social or cultural differences, in national or international contexts, and from contemprary or historical perspective. Courses that meet the requirement address any of these social identity variables: class, disability, ethnicity, gender, gender expression, nationality, race, religion, sexual orientation.
